FRUIT BORNE ALL ALONG THE BRANCHES AS ILLUSTRATED AT RIGHT

This new "Miracle" Bush Cherry, illustrated above as it blossoms in the spring time, is the result of 40 years of cross-breeding. The fruit is large and delicious to eat from the bush and makes a wonderful jam of superb flavor and richest color imaginable. The bush branches from the ground up and is literally covered with its delicious fruit all along the full length of the twigs and branches, just as it is covered with attractive snow-white blossoms in the spring. The blossoms are followed by silvery green foliage, turning to rich red and gold in the fall, so that the bush is always highly ornamental. They are superb as a hedge or foundation planting, or as specimen shrubs placed anywhere in the garden. The fruit, of course, may all be picked without the use of a ladder. They are hardy from coast to coast and from the Gulf of Mexico right into Canada. The strong plants I will send are bearing size. They will be shipped from my nursery in New Jersey.

Pink Shasta Daisy, "Clara Curtis"

The illustration at the right is just part of one plant. The illustration is greatly reduced, as the plant is nearly 2 feet across and the flowers are as much larger in proportion, being about 3 inches in diameter. The flowers are always produced in the greatest profusion during August, September and October, just as shown in the illustration. It is the hardiest of all Shasta Daisies and one of the hardiest of all plants grown. It has grown outdoors unprotected without injury at my nursery in the highlands of New Jersey, near one of the highest points in the state, where winter temperatures reach 20 below zero. It is a gorgeous sight in the garden and superb as cut flowers.
